

Graduation projects

ED Projects currently has the following graduation projects available:

Research on Inventory Management Systems

- Research on the possibilities for implementing an inventory management system for our company
- Implementation process of the inventory management system/software

We develop drilling tools and offer them to the oil and gas industry on a rental basis. Our tools are being shipped globally and represent a considerable value. A successfully implemented inventory management system should;

- Give clear insight into costs, location, occupancy rate, condition and availability of the tool on both onshore and offshore locations.
- Run in synergy with existing financial software
- Be useable online at any location worldwide

We offer a great opportunity to grow professionally within an international environment. A successful completion of the graduation assignment can result in an employment contract at our company.

If you are interested in joining our ambitious and highly motivated team for one of our graduation projects? Send your CV and cover letter to j.compas@ed-projects.com, or to the following address:
